CAMOUFLAGE

camouflage is an outdoor collection that includes a high and low armchair, a table and small table, all made of aluminium. in these sculptured elements the geometrical design of the structure frames the elaborated fretworked decoration. "we feel that we have created something new, something so obvious, but never actually realised into a commercial outdoor furniture collection before. modernism killed so many of the human nuances such as the importance of sculptural aesthetics that make our lives richer. with outdoor furniture the design criteria was always to be able to fold, stack and store the outdoor furniture until the weather allow us to spend time outside again. we feel that this collection offers not just an alternative, but also a new solution. the furniture can be left outside all year and additionally enrich our lives and environment as sculptural objects." fredrikson stallard.
